

Continuous Data Connection Across The Product Lifecycle

The digital thread connects segmented sources of data across design, manufacturing and production

- Create centralized source of truth
- Track downstream changes or alterations through the lifecycle
- Relate and connect production data to design data and simulation models
- Create Digital Twins and Machine Learning models that learn from existing data sources to predict or identify